Negro Athletes May Boycott BYU Games

The president of BYU says he is sorry to learn that Texas Negro athletes have threatened not to participate in a track meet at BYU Saturday.

Dr. Ernest Wilkinson says the statement of the Negro athletes at the University of Texas at El Paso is based on erroneous information.

Dr. Wilkinson referred to a statement disclosed late Thursday at El Paso that seven Negro track and field athletes will boycott their school's track meet at BYU. Their statement said the boycott was due to what they called a belief at BYU that "in the words of the statement: 'Blacks are inferior and are the Disciples of the Devil'."

Here is the full text of Dr. Wilkinson's statement in reply: "We are sorry to learn Negro athletes at the University of Texas at El Paso have threatened not to participate in our track meet.

Their statement as to the belief of BYU as respects the Negro is based on erroneous information and is untrue. We do not discriminate because of race, and we have Negro students in our student body.

We are as shocked as they over the death of Martin Luther King. But this should not interfere with friendly athletic competition between our schools. We welcome them to our campus as we have always welcomed Negro athletes in the past."

The University at El Paso said any member of its team who fails to participate will be considered by the Athletic Department as having voluntarily dissociated himself from the team.

PHYSICS DEPT. GOES UNDERGROUND

Dr. Dirl began flying this week north of the Eyring Science Center as a primary step toward the construction of an underground physics laboratory to be used for graduate

Provo Town

Entertainment Editor

The advent of spring in Provo makes studying a difficult activity. The sun shines, the girls wear pretty spring dresses, the guys daydream, the golf courses are full, and the weekend approaches with its myriad of activities for tired students.

BIG PROVO BLOW OUT

The least publicized and most interesting action of the weekend is the Nite On The Town. The presentation of a scant 50 cents at the main desk of the Wilkinson Center entitles one to a night of dancing, dining, and movies.

Local restaurants have agreed to reduced rates on items from steaks to pizza. Other benefits include free roller skating, a free movie in the Women's Gym called "When Comedy Was King" featuring Laurel and Hardy.

FOUR WEEKEND DANCES

Those fleet of feet are in good shape this weekend as there are four dances from which to choose.

Friday the stag affair features The Pack in the Women's Gym at 8:30 p.m. The clip is 50 cents.

If a western swing is more your forte the Arizona bunch is sponsoring a dance in the East Gym Friday at 8:30 p.m. The clip is also 50 cents.

Regionally is the order of the day Saturday in the East Gym as the Gay Nineties themed dance "Spring Has Sprung" takes to the floor at 8:30 p.m. They want 50 cents or a budget card to let you in. Music is by Wes Barry's band.

PARKING LOT SPECIAL

The last of the dances is the big parking lot frolic. Helaman Halls parking lot will ring to the tunes of the Jackson Bluebirds Saturday Night. This is part of The Nite on the Town so your ticket for that activity will be accepted. All students are invited so if you have a campus meal ticket or live in Heritage the admission is free. Others are hung for 50 cents.

RIP AND SHAW

Campus plays include "Rip Van Winkle" and "Candida." Rip is tearing up the house in the Pardo Theatre. Curtain is at 7:30. Bernard Shaw's "Candida" is running in the Margettes Arena Theatre. Curtain is 8:30 p.m. Both theaters are in the Harris Fine Arts Center and tickets are available at the box office.

FLICKS

Movies are still screening on campus in spite of the other activity. The Varsity has "Spencer's Mountain." University Cinema digs up an old one called "Wuthering Heights." "That Funny Feeling" will screen in the Joseph Smith Auditorium.

ACADEMY AWARD REVIEW

Larry Wright, our guest reviewer, visited a downtown theater and had these comments: "In the Hollywood heat of Wednesday night's Academy Award presentations, Rod Steiger was named best actor. Proud and prejudiced, Steiger stars in a movie about murder. But more than about the death of a man, in the Heat of the Night is about the disease of prejudice, and little about how it's cured. See it. After this week, we can all learn some."

EASTER SPECIAL

If anyone happens to read this before noon please be advised there is a special program of Easter Music at noon in the Larsen Gallery of the Harris Fine Arts Center. The program is called Easter Music at Midday; the rain pipe said the harpsichordist had water on the knee. Check it out.

GLENN'S BACK

Glenn Yarbrough is coming to town on the 19th of April. Last year's concert was a smash according to Wayne Gray this year's chairman. Gray promises a good show and Paul Gilbert says "We'll never run out of tickets." Tickets are available in the third floor ticket office. The seats are $1.50 each for bleachers. There are also 1600 dance tickets available.

BITS AND PIECES

The Women's Choir concert will be at 8:30 in the de Jong Concert hall.

There is a good Art Exhibit in the Larsen Gallery of the Fine Arts Center.

There is a fantastic art show in the Exhibition Hall dealing with the history of Medicine.

Concerts in prompnt in the Memorial Hall will be at 9 p.m. Friday.

The Long Beach, Calif., LDSA has been having a big water skiing party at Lake Havasu this past week. Eat your heart out; ah well back to the books.

Have a happy.

Academics Puts On A Show

It's all for you and it won't cost you admission. Come out and see what the Academics Office has been spending your funds on.

Dr. Glasser was a groove. But better things are on tap. Here's just a brief run down (or up) on what is to be:

Today Dr. Eli Shapiro of Harvard University will speak on current economic problems in the U.S. He is considered one of this nation's foremost authorities on finance and will probably reveal invaluable information concerning the present struggle of the dollar in Europe.

Monday Dr. Joseph Lyford will speak here on problems in the city. In as much as our cities face the biggest onslaught of heat from the ghetto this summer, his remarks likewise should hold much value to BYU students. Dr. Lyford is also considered a foremost authority in the field of urbanology.

Wednesday Anthony Zerbe, an outstanding stage and cinema actor, will present an oral reading of selected works. He is currently co-starring in a movie with Charlton Heston. Mr. Zerbe is also an excellent actor.

On Thursday and Friday Alfred Lilienthal will discuss the situation in the Middle East. He is a pro-Arab Jew (there is considered to be an outspoken Arab in his field of Arab-Jewish relations related to have a "friendly" discussion with Cleon Skousen on the state of affairs in Mid East.

This is one hullofa package deal a show.

Since a few hundred dollars per were spent out of our pockets we will get our money's worth.

More important, some truly stimulating ideas stand to be presented. We offer useful understanding about a through the contact with these outstanding gentlemen.

We pay tuition so that we can classes and theoretically learn to do ourselves as a result.

We pay student body fees which cover such functions as these.

The Universe urges the students of BYU to attend, to come and let your minds become involved with thought processes of these distinguished gentlemen.

Like let that grey matter get "outer" exposure and maybe you'll find solutions to your inner conflicts.

Ex-Student Earns Purple Heart

WAC Baseball Begins ...

Cats Challenge Ute Squad

By Jack Bailey
Assistant Sports Editor

"From what I've seen and heard, the northern division of the Western Athletic Conference baseball race will be a dogfight," states coach Glen Tuckett. "Wyoming and Utah are exceptionally strong this year."

The Cougar nine will get their first taste of this toughness this afternoon at 2 p.m. on Derks Field in Salt Lake City against Utah.

Tomorrow both clubs will square off on the BYU field in Provo for an important doubleheader. The first game will begin at 1 p.m.

LEADING HITTER

Outfielder Larry Romney currently leads the Cougar team in batting, sailing along at a .328 clip. First baseman Doug Howard is the only other BYU batter with a .300 plus average. He stands at .305 in 18 games. Gary Pullins, Mike Knosp and catcher Pat Eldredge are grouped around .290.

Veteran Marty Downen has been the top mound performer for the Mountain Cats. Downen has posted a 1-0 record after five appearances. He owns a 1.68 earned run average.

Junior hurler Ken Crosby and sophomore Dennis DuNann have each recorded two victories. Crosby also has a pair of losses while DuNann has suffered only a lone setback.

Prosh Mike McKay who has struck out four of the six batters that have faced him carries a 1-0 record in two appearances.

The BYU team holds down a 8-10 season record with all but two of their losses coming from California teams. The Cougar sluggers have readily handled Utah talent with doubleheader victories over Utah State and Weber State.

THREE STRAIGHT

Utah presently stands with a 6-5 season record and will be looking for its fourth straight win. Today's contest marks the first home game of the season for the Redskins.

Coach Pres Summerhays of Utah will go with either Mark DiGiosio or southpaw Dick Hardy on the mound in today's game.

In six games played between the two schools last year, the Cougars walked away with four victories.

Concerning the Utah contests, Cougar Coach Tuckett remarks,

"We've got to score more runs. If our pitchers can have some runs under their belts in the early innings they will be more confident on the mound."

Eakins Gets Bid

Jim Eakins, BYU's 6-11 center, has been selected as a member of the North squad for the annual North-South All-Star basketball game in Wichita, Kan., Saturday night.

Eakins, who led the Cougars in rebounding and was second in scoring this past season, thus becomes the third BYU player to play in the Wichita game. Dick Nemelka played in the 1966 All-Star game, and Craig Raymond won the honor in 1967.

Eakins was named to the official All-Western Athletic Conference team this year.

Y Tracksters In Big One; UTEP, USU

By Bob Hudson
Universe Sportswriter

... has stiff competition in the mile.

A great track meet appears to be in the making for this weekend. Judging from the names of some of the contestants, there'll be several interesting match-ups in Saturday afternoon's triangular meet (BYU, Utah State, and Univ. of Texas-El Paso) in Cougar Stadium.

Bobby Beamon, world indoor record holder in the long jump (27-1), will get plenty of competition from BYU's Pertti Pousi, Finnish National Champion last year, and Jim Blaisdell, a plus 25-foot jumper.

RECORD HOLDER

Kerry Pearce, world indoor record holder in the two-mile, will get his competition from Cougars Ray Rehalinsky, Larry Winward, and Bob Richards.

Richards has met him on six previous occasions and has yet to lose to the native of Australia.

Said Richards after one of his afternoon workouts, "I have a lot of respect for Kerry even though I have yet to lose to him. I just hope that I'll be at my best this weekend so that I can keep the string going."

The two will likely meet in the mile and two-mile this weekend. Although both are excellent steeplechasers, it is unlikely that they will run this event as it is non-scoring.

AIM AT MARKS

Several records could fall again this weekend. Stadium records are threatened more than are school records but anything could happen with this caliber of competition.

Beamon and Pousi are definite threats to erase Gary Ard's mark. In the long jump (set in the NCAA meet last spring).

Pearce and Richards set their sights on the 9-11 two-mile mark on George Scott (set in the 1966 WAC Finals) and Jim Ryan's 4:01.5 mile mark (set in the NCAA meet).

Jaakko Tuominen and Stan Bergeson could be pushed to even better times in the 800 by El Paso's Don Tague.

Alti Alarotti will continue his assault on the European record currently owned by San Jose State's Chris Paponicola.

Said Coach Clarence Robison, "This should be a very close meet. It could very well go down to the mile relay before the winner is determined."

Festivities begin at 1:30 with the long jump and pole vault. The running events begin at 2 p.m.

Bowlers In Two Meets

BYU's bowling teams have a busy schedule this weekend as Idaho State University comes to the Wilkinson Center today to challenge the men's and women's teams at 3 p.m.

Tomorrow the two teams will compete at Utah State University in Logan. Currently the women's team leads its division in the Intermountain Bowling Conference. The men's team is in third place in its division.

Easy 9-0 Victory...

Y Netters Blitz Weber State

By Roger Gillespie
Universe Sportswriter

BYU's tennis team gave visiting Weber State College an inopportune welcome Thursday, sending the Wildcats home with a 9-0 licking.

Sparking the Cougars was Keith Nielson, who used a booming service to destroy his opponent, Keith Cox, 6-0, 6-0. Dave George, playing in the number three slot and Eric Baer, number five man, also whitewashed their foes by the same count.

In the doubles matches, Nielson teamed with Baer to turn back the Weber netters 6-3, 6-1.

Larry Hall, who played in the number one singles slot, joined Dave George in whipping their foes 6-0, 6-1. Randy Trane and Chuck Pate also had little trouble with their opponents, winning 6-2, 6-2.

Weber State, who had previously shut out Idaho State 9-0, found the tables turned Thursday with the Cougars doing the honors.

Next on tap for the Cougars is an important intrasquad match which will be played today at 2:30 p.m. This match will go a long way in determining team positions for upcoming matches with Utah and UCLA.

In talking about this year's squad, Coach Pearce is hard-pressed to control his enthusiasm. "This is the strongest team we have ever had at BYU," said Pearce. "We should be ranked in the top three or four in the entire nation."

Ruggers Face
Tough Foe
On Haws Field

By Jim Williams
Universe Sportswriter

A high-flying BYU rugby team is anxious for today's and tomorrow's encounters with the University of California at Davis.

The JV squad tangles with the California team today at 3 p.m. and tomorrow the varsity squad makes the challenge at 2 p.m. Both games will be played on Haws Field—west of the Smith Fieldhouse.

Two invaluable Cougar ruggers, Sid Frazier and Ross Turner, are off the injured list and are ready for action.

"We should be in top physical shape," stated BYU coach John Seggar. "This should be one of the best teams we'll face this year," he added.

Playing in the Monterrey Rugby Tournament earlier this year, the Davis squad placed tenth in what is considered to be the top national rugby tournament.

The Cougars are seeking victory number eight. The only loss suffered by BYU was to powerful University of Southern California on the road several weeks ago.

Class Gov't. Reviewed

The fate of class government was discussed in executive council meeting Wednesday, but no decision was reached.

Doug Harrel, senior class president, read a proposed by-law intended "to strengthen class government." It would form a class coordinating committee (CCC) consisting of the president of each of the classes.

One-third of the classes' budget would be spent by the classes working together in the CCC.

During the discussion, Garth Pickett, executive assistant to the ASBYU president, declared that the Alma Mater Society wanted class government to be strengthened. Several university administrators and general authorities share a similar feeling that stronger class government would increase the spirit of the Y, explained Pickett.

With only two weeks remaining in the present council's tenure, there is a flurry of activity to review by-laws which outline the areas of concern for each of the offices in student government.

Swearing in of the new executive council will take place either the 23rd or 25th of April. Primary elections for class government will be the 18th and 19th.

Berlin Wall Not Open This Easter

BERLIN UPI—There are 800,000 West Berliners who are sadly aware this Palm Sunday that whatever "liberalization" may be going on elsewhere in the East European Communist bloc, it hasn't reached East Germany.

The 800,000 are those West Berliners who have close relatives and friends on the other side of the Berlin wall, in East Berlin.

SLIM HOPE

There had been a slim hope that the Communists would open the wall over the Easter holidays and allow West Berliners to visit their East Berlin relatives.

But the East German rulers again rejected Western proposals to negotiate a new wall pass agreement and the wall remains closed tight as it was last Christmas.

This refusal to open the wall even for a brief period was another sign that the "German Democratic Republic" has no intention of relaxing its tight Stalinist controls.

If the East German leaders continue to have their way there will be no Czech-type reforms in the Soviet Zone.

The East Germans not only have rejected any thought of the slightest democratization but they have gone so far as to criticize the Czechs and denounce the doctrines that led to the ouster of Antonin Novotny as Communist party leader and president.

The official East German line on so-called modern Marxism or democratic Marxism was laid down in a speech by Kurt Hager, chief theoretician of the party.

Hager said in effect that East Germany is going to continue to be a dictatorship over the proletariat, with rule exercised by a small number of Communist leaders who do not consult the party rank and file.

He termed "un-Marxist" demands for parliamentary democracy and civil liberties. He charged that American and West German imperialists were spreading such subversive doctrines in order to infiltrate the Soviet bloc and undermine its order and unity.

Such hard line talk, a throwback to the Stalin era, was bad news not only for 18,000,000 East Germans but for the West Berlin and West German governments who have been advocating agreements with the East German government to ease the lot of Germans living in a lion.

The East Germans have turned their backs on such agreements and the line so again this Easter.

The wall, which was built Aug. 13, 1961, is open to West Germans and East Germans may pass through designated crossing points. West Berliners are barred; they have special passes issued only in emergency

Rain Must Fall

by Camilla Miner
Culture Editor

"Into each life some rain must fall" but lately mine has been a steady downpour. Funny how failures seem to come multiples.

One of my biggest recent failures was losing the election. I wouldn't have minded so much if I'd gotten into the race, but losing out in the primaries gives a feeling no one else agreed with my decision to run.

The saddest part of the election was that everyone seemed to ignore my campaign when it came to voting. I like the Negroes who say white America hello's them death. Most people thought it was a good idea I was winning and smiled a lot; but I guess none of them voted me.

LOST CAUSE

I was fighting a lost cause. Women have yet to be anticipated in BYU politics. I am forced to pass that torch to a new generation.

And on the heels of failure in my public life came failure in my personal life. On the first of April one of my long time friends came over to see me. We've gone out every once in a while for years. He's one of those guys you like to talk to but our relationship had never been what I would call romantic.

Therefore, you can imagine my surprise when he leaned over and said he'd been thinking he needed a wife and that I would make a good one. I joined in the joke and I thought I would make a good one too.

I WAS SCARED

Then he said he was asking me to marry him. I was scared. He said this was the only way he could ask me. It appealed to my romantic side. I assumed he'd read the horoscope and decided that night would be a propitious one for the event. I am a senior, I thought to myself, and might be a good time to get married. (I really will make a good wife.)

Suddenly, it occurred to me that it was the first of April and that it was April Fool's day. I wondered why he was explaining this was the only day he could ask me.

The horrible thing is that I can't remember how I acted.

Chamber Recital Stages Tonight

Recent instruments lead off the Chamber Recital at 8:15 tonight in the Madsen Hall of the Harris Fine Arts Center.

A quartet with two recorders, harpsichord and viola da gamba combine to play Telemann's "Trio" in F major.

Following that group the Chamber Choir renders five songs including "In These Delightful Gardens" by Purcell.

Carl Nielsen's "Quintet" is led by Jo Marcane, flute, Jerol R. oboe, Lynn Robinson, French horn, Judy Asay, clarinet and Tom Marcane, bassoon.

AMERICAN OPINION

151 North University

I started thinking about being married. I thought my former friend was serious.

It reminded me of a similar traumatic experience when I was fourteen. I had dated alone in a car to a show with an older boy of sixteen for the first time. He was a very nice boy.

I've never considered myself particularly forward and he was very shy. I had met him while on vacation and just before I was leaving for home we went out for a walk in the park.

NO KISS

Just before we parted he asked if he could kiss me. I said he could. Then he said he was afraid of that and never did kiss me.

To this day I don't know why he asked if he had no intentions. He either thought I was a free woman or was too shy to carry it out.

Woe is me.

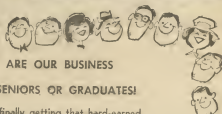

Easter Concert

Easter is traditionally a time of beautiful music.

The BYU Music Dept. at noon today presents its annual Good Friday Easter production. As occurs every year, this program includes sections of the "St. Matthew Passion" by Johann Sebastian Bach.

The concert is held in the Gallery of the Harris Fine Arts Center. Students and faculty members are invited to listen from any one of the two balconies and the ground floor.

"THE SHOE TREE"

Y Soil Scientist Makes Discovery

A BYU soil scientist, Dr. Raymond B. Farnsworth, has made a recent discovery that may have a great effect on the future range management in the Western States.

It has long been known that legume crops such as alfalfa, clover and soybeans are able to use atmospheric nitrogen to enrich the soil due to the presence of nodules on their roots on which microorganisms or bacteria live. These serve as agents to put nitrogen into a form which plants can use.

SAGE TOO

Dr. Farnsworth leads a team of soil scientists at BYU which has now discovered that nodules on the roots of one of the western sage, Artemisia ludoviciana, also contain microorganisms which produce the important nitrogen.

Dr. Farnsworth conjectures that nitrogen fixation also takes place in other sage brush and plants not yet studied.

"The importance of non-leguminous plants as a nitrogen source is only now being appreciated," said Dr. Farnsworth. "It is possible that the nodulated non-leguminous plants contribute as much nitrogen to the soils in which they grow as do the legume crops."

Dr. Farnsworth envisions that in the future, proper management of much of our existing wildlands, range and forests might include certain specific nodulated non-legumes for the improvement of the nitrogen economy of the soil.

OTHER POSSIBILITIES

"As soil scientists, foresters and ecologists became more alerted to these possibilities it is most likely that nodulated species will be found in other plant families," Dr. Farnsworth said.

Dr. Farnsworth will present a paper to explain his findings at division meetings of the Utah Academy of Sciences, Arts and Letters scheduled for the BYU campus Friday, April 12, beginning at 1 p.m.

He has been aided in research by Max Ward Hammond, a BYU student who was recently awarded a fellowship to Cornell University to continue work in this area.

Drafting Machine Installed at B

One of the first numerically-controlled drafting machines to be used strictly for educational purposes was recently installed in the Department of Industrial Technology at BYU.

The machine is a new Gerber series 622 which is manufactured by the Gerber Scientific Instrument Company in Hartford, Conn.

According to Wilford W. Tolman, Program supervisor in design and drafting at BYU, the new drafting machine represents one of the finest graphic output devices available on the rapidly expanding market today. Mr. Tolman recently returned from Hartford, where he received instructions and documentation on the machine and witnessed accuracy tests. The numerically-controlled machine is a complete automatic drafting instrument capable of drawing at 300 inches per minute, maintaining an accuracy of 1/16 of an inch on a 12-foot length. It can be scaled from half to 10 times original size.

Education Internships Begin

One of the newest programs in the state of Utah is BYU's Special Education Internship program.

Rex Pinegar, instructor in Special Education. Under Dr. Pinegar's supervision, five BYU students working on their Master's degrees are working city with students from the African Fork Training School.

According to Noel Croft, President of the Student Council for Exceptional Children, these students are rehabilitating American Training School children so they can occupy positions in the communities.

Frances Wright, one of the five students working on her Master's degree, said that many of these students would otherwise not be able to leave the school and join society.

Six or seven students from the Training School will be leaving at the end of this semester to work in surrounding communities under the supervision of the Special Education Dept.

Learning work skills and developing personalities are two main objectives of the Special Education department when working with these children.

The Old Timer

"T-u-b-tions have taken the place of all kinds of cranks except human ones."

Language Institute To Feature German

The language departments of BYU will sponsor the ninth annual Summer Language Institute during the first session of summer school from June 17 to July 19. This year the institute will involve German teachers in secondary education.

According to Professor Paul F. Luckau, director of the German Language Institute, "The program is designed primarily to increase proficiency of instructors in understanding, speaking, reading and writing German, and to acquaint them with recent advances in teaching methods and instructional materials."

Included in the institute will be a demonstration class of selected high school students who will present new techniques in language skills.

Professor Luckau will teach phonetics and German methodology.

The widely acclaimed group also performed for the "Windor Ballroom Championship" at the Anaheim Convention Center. Included in the dance competition were ballroom dancers representing all parts of the nation.

Plans are being made to enter up to 50 couples in competition next year.

The BYU Ballroom Dance Team is coached by Roy Mavor.
